

Homework 7.2: MindLogger article

- (1) What are the principal ways Mindlogger distinguishes itself from the many other apps that were considered in this article?

In this article we see the desired characteristics for the app creation platform by the author.

Some of them are how private the app data will be, how easy it is to create the app itself, notification system, data visualisation tools, audio and video recording, gps and many others...

MindLogger was the only platform that contained all the desired characteristics, that's how it distinguished itself from all the other apps considered in the article. It was all round the best option!
